CONFIRMATION PROCESS

- Market Participants should confirm FX trades as soon as practicable after execution, amendment or cancellation. The use of automated trade confirmation matching systems, when available, is strongly recommended. Market Participants should also implement operating practices that segregate responsibility for trade confirmation and trade execution.
- Confirmation should be transmitted in a secure manner; Electronic and automated confirmations are encouraged.
- If confirmations are communicated via open communication methods, those methods should comply with established information security standards, such as encryption in order to reduce the risk of fraudulent interception,
- Email communication received from a Market Participant's known email account will be deemed as originating from that Market Participant; any variation from discussions should be followed up by a call.
- Market Participants should ensure that they maintain procedures to minimize trade discrepancies.
- Market Participants that identify discrepancies between received confirmations or alleged trades and their own trade records should investigate internally and inform their counterpart with the aim to resolve such discrepancies as soon as practicable. Market Participants should also carefully reconcile all alleged trades and inform senders of unknown confirmations that the recipient cannot allocate to any internal trade record.
- All Market Participants are to ensure that escalation procedures are established to resolve any unconfirmed or disputed terms as a matter of urgency, and processes should be in place to detect and report adverse trends that emerge in the discrepancies.
- Escalation procedures should include notification to trading and other relevant internal parties so that they know which counterparties may have practices that do not align with best practices regarding confirmation of trades.

FAILURE TO COMPLY

Failure to comply with the Retail Code of Conduct may result in Authorised Dealers losing the authorization under the Bank of Jamaica (Authorized Dealers) Order 2015. For cambios, failure to comply will also be guided by Section I of the Operating Directions issued by Bank of Jamaica. In addition, Authorized dealers and cambios may be excluded from B-FXITT operations.
